Meſſieurs EDES & GILL, vid page 622.

A PHILOSOPHER being once aſked, which was the moſt dangerous of all beaſts, replied, of wild ones, a Tyrant is the moſt to be dreaded, and of tame ones a flatterer. And I think it not inconſiſtent with the generous plan I have adopted, after having reſpectfully paid my devoirs to the reigning Erynnis, to ſtep a little aſide, and render my compliments to the ſett of yelping Jacalls who pointed to the plunder, and in full cry, ſnatched at thoſe luſcious morſels right and privilege, to gorge the appetite of a lordly rioter. A neceſſity of ſubmiſſion at this preſent juncture, to many acts of unconſtitutional violence, has its due weight among the people; and I cannot but commend it, as expreſſive of ſubmiſſion to the appointment of their Sovereign, and of confidence that his wonted goodneſs will finally relieve them. But as neither law, goſpel or natural reaſon, enjoin obedience to a power like this, ſo nothing leſs than the ordinance of a God, can influence this people, to ſit down patiently beneath the ſcourge of Tyranny. If we cannot effectually redreſs the evil, we have certainly the means in our hands, in ſome meaſure, to repreſs the inſolence of audacious and unruly power. In a cauſe like this, I will not deal in riddles; in ſpite of all threats, nay ſhould that branch of the legiſlative body, (I ſpeak of the council) be for the preſent reſcinded, by the deſpotiſm of a petulent and domineering G——r; I would remonſtrate to thoſe who have the appointment, that thoſe members who have ſo cordially, ſo readily, and ſo very wickedly concurred with the deſigns of his E——y to injure the people, who are known by and conſtitute a part of that new hydra, a p——y c——l; I would again & again remonſtrate that they have deſerted your intereſt, and have rendered themſelves unworthy a ſeat there——For I dare be bold to aver, that none but thoſe who are corrupted with the baſe views of intereſt, or ſwayed by the apprehenſion of ſome poſſible danger, but will unite in aſſerting that there is a villainous contrivance to render this people obnoxious to their Sovereign, and ſuſpected to the Miniſtry, and involve them in ſuch a ſnare, that nothing leſs than the forfeiture of ſome important right, or darling priviledge, ſhall reſtore the ſlaves to peace. But the kind interpoſition of Heaven, with the generous and patriotic exertions of ſome among us, and ſome abroad, have hitherto in a marvellous manner fruſtrated the intentions of our malevolent foes, and I truſt in God, if we ſtill conduct ourſelves ſteadily and conſtitutionally, that all their deſigns of that baneful tendency will forever be equally fruitleſs and unſucceſsful.

We come now to our ſecond enquiry, viz. Whether his E——y has juſtly and righteouſly fulfilled the duties of his ſtation, relative to the people committed to his charge?—In the diſcuſſion of which, we ſhall very naturally determine the remaining queſtion, viz. Whether as a man and citizen, his deportment has been ſuch as naturally to conciliate the reſpect and eſteem of his fellow-ſubjects? I ſhall ſtill perſiſt to treat this Verres with unabated tenderneſs: 'tis not the man, but his conduct I deteſt; ſo I ſhall forbear to note innumerable lapſes in a lengthy courſe of error, glaring inſtances of blended meanneſs, and avarice, ſhall paſs unnoticed, and even many that favor ſtrongly of fraud & embezzlement; ſuch as the affair of W-r-n, the money affair at the Caſtle, and the ſtill more execrable Cockle collusion: theſe cum multis aliis, I ſhall throw a veil over, my ink not being black enough to deſcribe them:—That his E——y was the rigid, painful, obſtinate, and, thank Heaven, the defeated aſſertor of the propriety, neceſſity and wonderful utility of the ſtamp act, that from obvious predilections he endeavoured to calumniate the moſt loyal people under Heaven, and repreſented a conſtitutional tho' ſteady oppoſition to that act as diſaffection to their Sovereign, and a purpoſed deſign to render the authority of parliament contemptible; that he hath maliciouſly perverted the benevolent expreſſions of the moſt amiable monarch, to the vile purpoſes of ſowing diviſions among the people, diſſeminating a ſpirit of faction, and eſtranging their affections from the darling object of their complacency; that he hath thruſt himſelf and his creatures into departments in which he and they could have no ſhadow of right; that he hath uſurped powers not only not tollerated by, but expreſly contrary to the known, and moſt obvious conſtruction of the charter; that by partial, unequal and falſe declarations, he hath injuriouſly miſrepreſented the people of this p--v--e, and at the ſame time, by low, ſupple and deluſive inſinuations, hath duped the ſame people out of a whole Seignorie; and in many inſtances enriched himſelf by ways & means unconſtitutional and ungub——t——rial; that by a meanneſs peculiar to himſelf, and monſtrous confederacy, he hath endeavour'd to betray the honeſt merchant, and under the pretended ſanction of charter-right, formed a Sanhedrim ſtrange, uncontrouled & deſtructive; that he hath diſgracefully torn away the commiſſions of ſeveral honorable gentlemen, becauſe they were hardy enough to confront the advances of tyranny, and maintained the prerogative to think for themſelves, and afterwards hung thoſe badges of infamy on his temporizing ſycophants; that he hath invaded the privileges of the late truly reſpectable houſe in many groſs inſtances, becauſe they effected the deſirable work in excluding penſioners and other officers from the Board, where their influence was incompatible with other ſtations they occupied, and notoriouſly miſchievous; that he hath proſcribed and treated with every mark of neglect and abhorrence, the zealous & active friends of the province, for no other cauſe but that they were tenacious of the privileges of Britiſh ſubjects, and wrought out ſalvation for us: Theſe and many inſtances more might be produced to enroll his name with a Verres, an Albinus, a Spencer, or an Andros; but I will not tire the reader, and ſhall only obſerve one recent proof of his malevolence, of his, who ought to be the beneficent eye, the protecting arm, and parental heart of Majeſty to this much abuſed people.—I have cautiouſly avoided ſifting into the natural defects of Verres, eſteeming it rude to exhibit to the public eye, the follies of private character; the law takes cognizance of moral delinquencies, be the ſtation of the offender ever ſo exalted, and ſuch fall not within my preſent deſign; as to conſtitutional foibles which affect not the public injuriouſly, I can eaſily forgive them, and at preſent am too ſeriouſly affected to meddle with them; 'tis the conduct of the man in his public character, I mean to arraign—To me, to all mankind I hold him accountable there; a man diſtinguiſhed, confided in and paid by the publick, is the ſubject of public inquiſition; if by neglecting to diſcharge the duties of his function, or otherwiſe, he endangers the ſafety, and ſacrifices the intereſt of the public either wantonly, capriciouſly, tyrannically or ignorantly, I hold him culpable, dangerous or deteſtable, according to the degree of miſchief intended or effected; and tho' ſuch miſconduct ſhould not fall within the verge of any particular ſtatute, the ſufferers hold the rod of public abhorrence, and no wretch was ever ſo callous as not to feel the inflicted puniſhment:—But to our purpoſe; the matter referred to, is the exaggerated account tranſmitted to England, relating to the oppoſition certain cuſtom houſe officers met with in attempting a forcible entry into the houſe of Capt. Malcom. I ſhall not employ myſelf at preſent in a diſquiſition concerning the legality or neceſſity of certain writs of aſſiſtance lately foiſted into being, as the propriety of ſundry innovations equally controvertable may probably be the ſubject of ſome future paper; but admitting the certainty of contraband goods being lodged in ſaid houſe (which by the way is diſputable) and that the King's officers were treaſonably oppoſed in the execution of their office by a few lawleſs men; was it kindly done of his E——y the father of the people, to buſy himſelf in ſuch a trifling affair, and not only to take affidavits from the officers on purpoſe to repreſent the caſe home, but to take thoſe affidavits ex parte, and aggravating every circumſtance, to endeavour to repreſent it as an outrage on order and govern--t concerted and perpetrated by the body of the people; and having this deſign, and engaged in the actual execution of it, to deny his intention to let the matter tranſpire, thereby endeavouring to lull us in a ſtate of indolent ſecurity, while he was working our ruin in the dark; and further to give his infamous proceeding the colour of juſtice, and make it the more conſpicuous, the formality of a conſultation was not wanting, and tho' he failed of the advice of thoſe priv m——rs who are generally ready to ſacrifice to his inclinations, yet the fineſſe of thoſe affidavits being taken by the g——r in c——l was made uſe of to give his malice a greater ſanction. Will ſuch conduct in a g——r admit of any tollerable colouring? with what indignation does every honeſt friend to his country obſerve this proſtitution of regular and ch——l government in this new creation, a p——y c——l? but the extent of miſchief deſigned by this tyrannical ſtep to the cr——n is rendered ſo generally, notoriouſly, and ſo indiſputably certain, ſince the acquiſition of a copy of his letters, (with thoſe of others in the ſame confederacy) that I am induced to drop the proſecution of further proof, by obſerving a univerſal conviction of his ſiniſter intentions, even among thoſe who were the moſt backward to indulge ſuch ſuſpicion: further I ſhall not proceed upon this plan, unleſs ſome ſordid Philanthrop yet unplaced, ſhould reſume the taſk of bleaching this dirty Moloch, who like that of old is moſt propitious to thoſe, who ſacrifice to him their deareſt enjoyments, and ſeems delighted with the cries, ſlaughter and diſtreſs of the peo le——I ſhall probably at leiſure make ſome ſtrictures upon the letters juſt arrived, and would invite Philanthrop, tho' he has the ſoſ in his mouth, to make another eſſay; as ample teſtimonials of the patriotiſm, goodneſs and clemency of his hero are not wanting, and he may at leaſt parade it with as much honeſty, truth and beauty as heretofore.

PHILALETHES.

Meſſieurs EDES and GILL,

Pleaſe to inſert the following.

IT was not my deſign when I laſt wrote to take any further notice of Young, or any thing he might publiſh; but as he has called upon me to appoint time and place to meet him, and fairly diſcuſs thoſe points in debate between us—I cannot help taking notice there has been a time when he very carefully avoided meeting me: particularly in the caſe of Mrs. D——s, he enquired of the family to know at what time I viſited her, they told him I commonly viſited in the morning; he immediately ſaid, that to prevent my ſeeing him, he would always viſit in the evening, which he accordingly did.—But as he did not then chuſe to ſee me, I do not think myſelf under the leaſt obligation to attend to his childiſh oſtentatious challenge. I will only inform him, that if he has an inclination to bring matters to a public examen, I am fully prepared for him, and have deſignedly given him ſo fair an opening, that none can be at a loſs to determine who it is that meanly endeavors to conceal his ignorance beneath the maſk of ſuperior knowledge; but if he does not embrace this opportunity—let him remember, that he will one day be bro't to a trial where the ghoſts of Hodſdon, P——el, D——per and D——s, and many others will alſo be ſummoned to appear.

Thurſday laſt the Capts. Freeman and Cmand, in 6 Weeks; and on Friday Capt. Delano, in 29 Days arrived here from London; by the latter we have Prints to the 4th of April, from which we have taken the following Paragraphs.

LONDON,

March 5. This day was held a full board of trade and plantations, at which were preſented ſeveral petitions from the colony agents.

On monday next Admiral Palliſer will ſet out for Portſmouth to take on him the command of the ſhips of war fitting out for Newfoundland.

They write from Leghorn, that Gen. Paoli had iſſued an edict, prohibiting the Corſicans from hoiſting either at ſea or in any of the harbours of the iſland, Genoeſe colours.

March 7. The Romney man of war is commiſſioned, on board which ſhip Commodore Hood will hoiſt his broad pendant, and proceed as ſoon as poſſible to Halifax, in order to take upon him the command of all his Majeſty's ſhips in North America. John Corner, Eſq; is appointed the commodore's captain.

The council, held one day this week in Bond-ſtreet, it is ſaid, broke up very abruptly, and, indeed, almoſt in confuſion; and it is particularly aſſured, that ſome late proceedings of two high officers, were moſt ſeverely animadverted upon.

The miſunderſtanding between our court and that of Liſbon, is far from being adjuſted; and, it is expected, Mr. Hay, our miniſter there, will ſpeedily be recalled.

Three more regiments of foot are ordered for North America, to replace the garriſons that are to return. The tranſports to carry them will ſail for New-York, under a convoy of a man of war, towards the end of this month.

March 9. Saturday the Rt. Hon. Charles Townſhend, reſigned his place of chancellor of the exchequer.

Lord Barrington and Lord North are talked of to ſucceed the Rt. Hon. Charles Townſhend, as chancellor of the exchequer.

It is ſaid that our Governors in America are ordered, for the future, to ſend over (annually) the ſtate and condition of the province over which they preſide.

We hear that laſt week orders were given for all the guard ſhips at Portſmouth and Plymouth to be augmented to their full complement of men.

March 10. It is ſaid the changes are all over—The gentleman who was to take the lead in the intended reſignation is ſatisfied; in conſequence of which the reſt are content with their preſent ſituation.

They write from New-York, that the Deputies from the ſeveral provinces are expected there in May next, to hold a congreſs on affairs of great importance to the commercial intereſt of the Colonies.

March 12. The differences & diſputes amongſt the great ones, at the weſt end of the town, it is now ſaid are all happily compromiſed, on which account the expected changes in the miniſtry will not take place.

We hear that the Earl of Chatham has had honour, ſince his arrival in town, of three private conferences with his Majeſty at the Queen's palace.

March 14. Yeſterday the Earl of Chatham had again the honour of a private conference with his Majeſty, at the Queen's palace, before his Majeſty went to Court.

We are aſſured, that a letter was very lately written by a High Perſonage to a certain Patriot Nobleman, declarative of ſuch confidence and ſupport as to have ſilenced oppoſition, and brought about a tranquility among the Great, which was thought to be impracticable.

It is the reigning report, at the Weſt end of the town, that we ſhall ſhortly ſee a new war break out in Germany between two powerful royal houſes.

It is now confidently given out, that the great man, whoſe reſignation was lately publiſhed in the News Papers, has repented his humiliating condeſcention to the noble guide, and has once more reſumed his purpoſe of retiring.

A late great failure in the city, it is feared, will too ſoon be followed with farther conſequent bankruptcies, through the great commercial connexions of the houſe which has ſo ſuddenly ſtopped payment.

This morning diſpatches were ſent off from the Secretary of State's Office, for his Excellency Sir Henry Moor, Governor of New-York.

April 1. A ſhip is loſt near Bologne, ſuppoſed bound from Boſton, and by ſome Papers found, appears to be the John Gally; ſeveral Boxes of ſpermaceti Candles, &c. are ſaved, but no farther Particulars as yet known.

April 4. A Letter from Hamburgh, dated March 24, ſays, "The ſpeedy Arrival of 15 or 16000 Ruſſian Troops in Poland is no longer to be doubted. We are even aſſured from good Hands that the Court of Peterſbourg has ſet forth the Motive for ſending them in. A Declaration lately ſent to Warſaw on this ſubject. Theſe Forces are to ſupport the Confederacy which the Diſſidents are going to form. It is to be preſumed that the other ſide will not ſleep; and therefore we are apprehenſive that the public Tranquility is going to be diſturbed in Poland and Lithunia, unleſs ſome conceſſions are made by both parties.

A very melancholly Accident happened on board Captain Freeman's Ship on the Passage, Mr. Benjamin Dolbeare, jun. a Passenger, going upon Deck in the Evening, being very dark, and a large Sea, he unfortunately fell overboard, and was drowned.

Thursday Morning Mr. Jenkins the Town-Cryer fell down just as he was going out to cry Fish, and died instantly.

Last Wednesday Afternoon the Reverend Mr. Simeon Howard, A.M. was Ordained to the Pastoral Office of the West Church in this Town, whereof the late Reverend Jonathan Mayhew, D.D. was Pastor. The Ceremony was as follows,

The Ministers and Delagates of Fourteen Churches that were sent to, attended at a House provided for them, from whence, with the Brethren of the Church and Congregation of the West-Church, and their Pastor elect, they went in Procession to the Meeting-House, where were assembled the Reverend Ministers of the Town of every Denomination of Dissenters, as also the President, Fellows, Professors, &c. of Harvard-College, of which Mr. Howard is a Member, who all had been invited, together with a Number of Ministers from the neighbouring Towns, and a great Concourse of People of all Ranks: Being met,

An Anthem was sung. Entitled David's Elegy on Jonathan.

A Prayer was made by the Rev. Mr. Perkins of Bridgwater.

A Sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. Chauncy, from those Words in Acts XVII. 2 3 And Paul, as his Manner was, went in unto them, and three Sabbath-days reasoned with them out of the Scriptures, opening and alledging, that Christ must needs have suffered and risen again from the dead: and that this Jesus whom I preach unto you, is Christ.

The Church and Congregation, then manifested their unanimous Choice of the Pastor elect.

At the Laying on of Hands the Rev'd Mr. Gay of Hingham gave the Charge.

The Rev'd Mr. Appleton of Cambridge gave the Right Hand of Fellowship.

After which a Prayer was made by the Rev. Mr. Mather of this Town.

Part of the 68th Palm was then sung.

And the Blessing given by the Rev. Mr. Howard.

The whole concluded with an Anthem for the Peace of the Church of Christ in the World.

Every Part was carried on with Decency, good Order and great Solemnity.

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman in London, to his Friend in Boston, that came in Capt. Freeman.

"I HAVE now the pleasure to assure you, that the ministry are well satisfied with your late conduct. Your province was yesterday spoken of in the house of commons with great respect, and your conduct commended. They will attend to no altercations of old affairs.

I advised you as one of the committee, that Malcomb's affair was not adopted by the government, nor do I believe it has left any bad impressions on their minds.

I advised the Speaker of the reception of the house's representation of their grievances, which was pertinent, decent and modest, and am in hopes of good effects from it. The sending votes of thanks to the several persons who appeared in your favor on the late repeal was a well judged measure, and doubtless of service to your interest here. You do me justice in believing me to be a friend to America and to Liberty; that darling favourite and important cause will ever lay near the heart of your real friend and humble servant."

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman of character in London, to his Friend in this Town, dated the 9th of March 1767.

"I Think the house (of Representatives) much to be commended for being jealous of their privileges—There is certainly some body who misrepresents your province; but—your character as a province stands very well with the ministry, and has been spoken of with approbation by the house of commons." The same letter mentions lord S——z's being intirely satisfy'd of the conduct of this town, respecting the affair of capt. Malcomb last fall; and further, that there is good reason to hope that the difficulties lying on our trade and fishery will be remov'd, in consequence of the letters on that subject sent home by the late house of representatives, and the petition of the merchants of this town.

☞ Thursday last Faneuil-Hall Lottery No. 8 began Drawing, when only one Ticket (No. 1497, a Blank) was drawn.—The Managers then adjourned the Drawing 'till To-morrow at Three o'Clock Afternoon, at which Time they will go on drawing 'till finished.—A few Tickets may be had if apply'd for immediately.
